

Year 9 Music Curriculum Plan

Topics covered	Assessments
Understanding the Conventions of Film music: Understanding how film music manipulates emotions of the audience Copying and Emulating Music: Pupils emulate the real-life learning practices of young, beginner popular musicians, by listening, discussing, selecting, aurally-copying, rehearsing, arranging and performing their own choice of music. They direct their own route through learning, individually and as a group. Copying and Emulating a specific piece of music: Pupils are provided with a recording of a song on a CD which contains two versions of the complete song, plus several riffs played separately and in combination. Pupils listen, discuss, select and aurally copy the riffs vocally and instrumentally in order to create their own version of the song Informal composing: Building on the knowledge, skills and understanding, pupils compose, rehearse and perform their own music in groups. They receive guidance from musical role models either external musicians or other musicians from within the school. Into the Deep End with Other Music: Pupils listen to, discuss and select a piece of classical music from a selection of pieces used on current TV advertisements. They listen to, discuss, select, aurally copy, rehearse and perform the music. They direct their own route through learning, individually and as a group. Modelling Classical Music with Aural Learning: Pupils listen to, discuss and select a piece of classical music drawn from the core of the classical repertoire. They are provided with a recording of the music in its original form, and broken down into separate melody and bass lines. Pupils listen to, discuss, select, aurally copy, rehearse and perform the music.	The composition and performance of a piece of music to be used alongside a film track The performance of an arranged piece of music The performance of the agreed piece of music The composition of a song The performance of a piece of music of more serious intent taken from adverts they might have seen on TV The rearranging and performing of music from the Classical repertoire
